The moral of the story

Where to start: Start with a conversation about fables or stories with morals. You can name a few to get the conversation started. How many can you think of? What is the purpose of stories like these?

Prompt: Do you think "cautionary tales" or stories and fables with a moral at the end make kids behave better? Explain why or why not.

How to go deeper: Choose a "lesson" you want to impart and write a fable to illustrate why it's important. (Use the back of this page to write.)
