Lost and found

Describe a time when you lost an object that was important to you. What was it and why was it important? Did you find it?

Keep in mind: The lost object could be something really significant, or something trivial and funny. The goal here is to tell a story and include as many details as you can about the experience.

Bonus: Some of the most difficult losses aren’t objects at all. What else can you lose? (Use the back of this page to write.)